were to take office, and Saturday afternoon met together to put the final touches on their plans for the first day in office. This procedure is highly recommended by the League of Municipalities. Not only did the group discuss the various appointments to be made, but also decided just which member would make each motion and the one to econd the motions. This procedure quired by law and removes confusion from a newly-elected council.

Sharpless was again named Mayor Pro-Tem on a motion by Councilman L.F. Inman. Sharpless has served the last four years in this position. The office is purely an honorary one unless the mayor is out of town or sick. At that time the Mayor Pro-Tem will preside over meetings. If the mayor, for any reason, leaves office, Sharpless will ANDREWS CONVICTED IN MOTEL hold the office of mayor only until the entire council meets and selects a

> The office of Chief of Police will be filled by Ray Norris. Norris is a former member of the Elba Police Department and a former chief deputy of the Coffee County Sheriff's Department. The motion by Councilman Cleo Hawkins was approved on a 4-1 vote with Councilman David Stokes voting no. Stokes, however, made the motion to hire Roger Booth as Assistant Chief. This was approved unanimously.

> A new position of City Engineer was announced by Mayor English, and Hawkins quickly made a motion to name Jim Williams to the job. Williams retired from a career with the Alabama Highway Department, with many years experience in supervising employees. English said that Williams had agreed to take the position soon after the election, after laughing at the sug-gestion at a fish fry during the campaign. Williams will serve without pay at his own request.

Brainstorms

It now appears that Governor James has canceled plans for a RALPH L. BRUNSON special session of the Alabama Legislature for this fall. A General Executive couple of months ago, while in Montgomery, we overheard him say the special session would wait until "we have had a couple of weeks of bird hunting." He had also said it wouldn't come to pass unless the legislature assured him the proposals would pass. . . apparently they didn't give that promise. In fact, those from around the state we have talked Pyramids, oblisks, and a to have said any such session would be "a blood-letting." In other words, they are far from united with the governor's

The new city administration took office in Elba as in other excavated temple dating Alabama cities on Monday of this week. They were officially back to centuries B.C. sworn in at 6 p.m. Monday, but for some time the week Beyond it was the beautiful before, it appeared ye ole editor was going to get up before Nile with a background of breakfast to witness the ceremony. Sunday the local Army Reserve unit went through the tiquated, animal pulled ceremony for a change of command, and had the General pumps used to supply water present for the activities. Elba's new mayor was there as a Cairo gets only two weeks of guest and immediately struck up something in common with General Bugg. It seems Bugg was a long-time friend of one of how important the Nile is to English's uncles, so now they are best of friends also. Actually, fall planted roses make little or no root growth during that season, because the plants are in the act of dropping into winter dormancy. As the ground in which they are planted continues to cool,

The primary advantages of planting in this season, aside from the availability of the gardener's time, are that the soil will settle firmly about the roots throughout the fall and that the plants are established and ready to start active growth as the ground and air reach growing week after the Elba-Greenville game when he stated, "It was one of the hardest-hitting high school football games I have ever seen!" Everybody who was there would have to agree with the statement, because it was just a plain, old-fashioned head-knocking contest. The Elba offense scored only once, but on that drive they simply lined up and ran right at the strong Greenville defense. It was a drive that pitted muscle against muscle, and our boys won the battle, and the game! The Elba defense won the hearts of the large hometown crowd by playing their best game in many years. Greenville had a big, running type offense, but could budge Elba's defense for only 76 yards on the ground. When the chips were down, the defense came through and preserved the victory. In Elba we spell relief "D-E-F-E-N-S-E"

The Elba Athletic Club puts together the football program each year, and again this season we have, without a doubt, the best program of any school in the state. The club puts a lot of hard work and countless hours into the program, which is filled with pictures, stories, information, and an in-depth look into the game to be played. The businesses in the area support the program with ads, and are proud to be included in such a professional-looking publication. It is a total effort of everyone involved that makes our program the best. Buy one at the next home game!

I watched the Ohio State - UCLA game on TV last week, and really enjoyed watching Ohio State get blasted 17-0. UCLA had a big, well-coached team, with lots of spirit, and were simply better than the Buckeyes. When Ohio State plays, there is always action on the sidelines, and Saturday was no exception. In the fourth quarter a UCLA defensive back made a tackle and held on to the player as they went out of bounds. The two men exchanged words and slapped at each other, and then a photographer came up and hit the UCLA player in the back. The player and photographer exchanged a few words, and then the player clobbered the photographer with a shot to the head. The photographer went down for the count, and the player was ejected from the game. It's not good for a player to lose his temper and hit anyone, but since the photographer was wearing an Ohio State hat, he has my forgiveness! fine offensive blocking and a Moore and Greg Hanchey
